In part of this class, students will learn what kind of leadership qualities fit their personality. Utilizing leadership skills will help each student excel in whatever field they choose to be in. A simple understanding of what it takes to be a leader will remove the negative stigma of the unknown in this area. Each student will have time to practice the skills they learn during class, among themselves. In the other part, there will be guest speakers from various industries to help students see how their leadership skills have helped these individuals excel in their field. What does it take to be a great leader in their field? What does it take to be a good employee? How do you get to the next level in your profession? What would it take to be promoted? Guest speakers will also cover basic topics such as job qualifications needed, entry-level salary, potential earning range in the field, lifestyle, daily work schedule, health insurance, time off, etc.
